Defense Agency Opens Study on Own Shelters

Problem of Protecting Military Aides from Fallout Is Pondered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department, now custodian of the civil defense fallout shelter program, has decided the military should do something about providing protection for its own people.

Since the department received the responsibility for the shelter program last summer, it has been busy telling civilians how to build their own shelters—and has done virtually nothing about increasing the handful of shelters the military had built.

In a new memorandum which came to light today, Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric told the service secretaries and his own manpower and installations officials that: "Study should be initiated promptly to determine actions which are available to serve the dual purpose of protecting personnel and offering tangible evidence that the military establishment takes civil defense seriously."

A Defense Department directive issued in July 1960 says in reference to government-owned or government-sponsored housing that "fallout protection should be provided military and civilian personnel and their dependents in both new and existing construction."

However, the military's program hasn't gone much beyond the issuing of the policy statement more than a year ago and the new, prodding memorandum by Gilpatric.

A few posts, camps and stations have begun an attempt to provide shelter space for military and civilian personnel, and courses on radiation safety procedure are being taught. There is no money in the current fiscal 1962 budget for such shelters.

The few really big radiation-tight fallout shelters the military now has are designed for personnel who would have direct part in the command machinery or the launching of weapons.

Headquarters of the Strategic Air Command near Omaha, Neb., is underground, protected against bomb blast as well as fallout.

The "alternate Pentagon," located in a cavern under a mountain near the Maryland-Pennsylvania border, is a stout, fallout-protected place.

The underground sites at which intercontinental ballistic missiles are located have fallout protection features.

But in each case, these shelter are for the specific purpose of protecting a few individuals who must make decisions, transmit commands or fire weapons.

Pranksters Help Save 5 Lives

CLEVELAND (AP)—Costumed Halloween pranksters invaded engine house No. 11 on East 91st Street, blowing their horns at 3 a.m. Sunday, and it was a good thing they did.

The sleepy firemen jumped out of bed and slid down the pole to chase the pranksters, and in the midst of the melee the alarm rang for a pump engine.

In the excitement, the firemen sent an extra hook-and-ladder by mistake. The truck arrived just in time to help save five persons trapped on the second floor of a burning building.

Bernard W. Mulcahy, fourth battalion chief, said the five might not be alive now "if that extra hook and ladder hadn't accidentally come."

Congolese Troops Said Continuing Invasion

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—Troops of the national Congolese army today were reported continuing to advance into Katanga Province, razing villages and murdering women and children on their way.

The invading troops had been ordered back to their bases while the Leopoldville and Elisabethville governments negotiated for a settlement to end Katanga's secession.

Suffocation Listed as Cause Of Lancaster Child's Death

A three-month-old baby was pronounced dead on arrival at 3:05 a.m. yesterday in Berger Hospital due to suffocation.

Anthony Wayne Arledge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Arledge, of Lancaster, was pronounced dead by Dr. V. D. Kerns, physician on duty at the hospital.

City Police said parents of the dead child were at the self service laundry, E. Franklin St., when the baby apparently suffocated.

Sgt. Roderick List reported that Mrs. Arledge was doing the family laundry. He said the father was holding the baby and attending to him.

The Arledges, visiting with Mrs. Mary Climer, Stoutsville, returned to the Climer residence and noticed that the child was not breathing.

The child was rushed to Berger Hospital where it was pronounced dead-on-arrival.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a sister, Jacqueline; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Arledge and Mrs. Mary Climer of Stoutsville; and great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Anderson and Mrs. May Rhymer of Stoutsville and Mr. and Mrs. Murray Arledge of Route 1, Orient.

Funeral services will be 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home, with the Rev. Ronald Brant officiating. Burial will be in Hitler-Ludwig Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

Buggy Lights Ruled Illegal; Amish Jailed

KENTON, Ohio (AP)—Twelve Amishmen were convicted today of failure to use proper lights on their buggies. They went to jail rather than pay their fines.

The twelve men and three juveniles—whose cases will come up later—were arrested last Thursday night by sheriff's deputies. They were charged with violating a state law requiring that horse-drawn buggies display electric flasher lights.

Refusing to recognize the existence of the law or its jurisdiction, all 12 pleaded no contest in Kenton Municipal Court and were fined $10 and costs each. They chose not to recognize the fines either, Sheriff James Baldrige said, and went to Hardin County Jail to serve out the fines and court costs at $3 a day.

Capt. J. L. Bishop of the Ohio Highway Patrol said in Columbus that the law gives the state highway safety director authority to approve an alternate type of light if it is submitted to tests at Ohio State University and meets standards set by the Association of Automotive Engineers.

The court asked Baldrige to submit to a state test the German-made flashing kerosene lanterns used by the Amish. The users say their lanterns can be seen the required 500 feet but the sheriff said, to his way of thinking, they can't be seen that far.

Good Samaritan Proves To Be Armed Bandit

ATLANTA (AP)—William A. Higginbotham's car stalled at an intersection. Another driver came along, gave him a push and the car started.

Higginbotham stopped, got out and offered the good Samaritan a dollar for his trouble. Then, Higginbotham told police, the stranger flashed a knife and took all his cash—$31.

Body of Stalin Loses Honor Spot

MOSCOW (AP)—Five thousand cheering delegates and officials at the Soviet Communist party congress voted today to remove the body of Joseph Stalin from its place beside Lenin in the big tomb on Red Square.

The congress action came in the wake of speeches by Premier Khrushchev and others denouncing the longtime Soviet dictator as a murderer and instigator of mass repression against Communist and army leaders. Khrushchev said as a result of Stalin's purges, the Soviet army's efficiency was at a low ebb at the time of the German attack in 1941.

The mausoleum, which thousands visit each day, was suddenly closed Sunday "for repairs," a police guard on duty there said.

The name of Stalin, put alongside Lenin's on the tomb when his embalmed body was placed there in 1953, will be removed. The monument now will bear the name of the founder of modern-day communism, Vladimir Ilyich Lenin.

There was no immediate announcement where the embalmed body of Stalin will be placed.

The proposal for the removal was made in the congress in the Kremlin by Ivan Spiridonov, first secretary of the party in the Leningrad region.

The reign of terror during the Stalin regime has been cleared for free and open discussion in the Soviet Union.

For the first time Soviet newspapers branded the old dictator as a tyrant, publishing Khrushchev's speech before the party congress in which he charged "thousands of absolutely innocent people perished" in Stalin's purges before World War II.

Khrushchev and other party leaders at the congress exalted the memory of Lenin while denouncing Stalin for creating a "personality cult."

Negro Going To Africa

Northern Segregation Brought under Fire

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—A Battle Creek Negro announced Sunday that he and his family plan to move to Africa because "I'm sick of prejudice which is just as prevalent in the North as in the South."

Herman McGee, 36, veteran of World War II, said he, his wife and their two children planned to give up their United States citizenship and move to Nigeria, Liberia, or Ghana. "We'll never be able to live like first-class citizens here," he said. "I'll be dead long before segregation is broken down here."

"Freedom isn't just something you feel. A Negro has a psychological barrier. It's impossible for him to say he's a free man and really believe it himself," he said.

McGee said he and his family still planned to move after the refusal of Houston, Tex., contractor Robert E. Nesmith to pay their fare.

Nesmith has said he will pay for the passage of any Communist or Socialist if he will leave the United States and renounce his citizenship.

McGee answered Nesmith's offer, but the Texan said he would not pay McGee's way to Africa because "I'm not a transportation service for people who just don't want to stay here."

It will take about three years to raise the necessary money on his own, McGee said. He and his wife Lillian, 34, own a recreation hall and beauty shop here. Their children are Anthony, 13, and Gwendolyn, 16.

U.S., Soviet Envoys Clash Over Firing of Superbomb

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson today accused the Soviet Union of pushing the world toward disaster by exploding its massive superbomb.

The Soviet Union retorted that the current tests were intended to prevent the United States from launching a nuclear war.

The clash occurred in the General Assembly's main political committee, where Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin cited the critical Berlin situation as the reason for the current series of Soviet nuclear tests, including today's explosion of a bomb said to surpass 50 megatons.

"Any moment war can start," Tsarapkin declared.

Stevenson charged that the Soviet Union had shown cynical disregard for the United Nations and its appeal to the Kremlin not to test a 50-megaton bomb approved last Friday night by a vote of 87-11.

Tsarapkin quoted at length from Premier Khrushchev's statement explaining the Soviet government's reasons for going against world opinion to carry out the bomb tests. Then he added:

"In order to prevent a nuclear and rocket war all measures must be taken. And one of these measures which can prevent you from launching a nuclear weapons war is to increase the defense

Swedes Place Blast Size at 75 Megatons

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP)—Scandinavian scientists reported today that the Soviet Union set off its 50-megaton hydrogen bomb—or possibly one even bigger—in the biggest man-made blast in history.

Dr. Marcus A. Baath of the Uppsala Seismological Institution said the explosion recorded there was "more than 2½ times as strong" as last Monday's blast, which was estimated in the range of 30 megatons.

A megaton has the force of one million tons of TNT, and a 50-megaton bomb would be 2,500 times as powerful as the first U.S. atomic bombs exploded over Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

At Bodoe, Norway's new radiation warning command said the prevailing winds were carrying the radioactive cloud from the explosion away from the Scandinavian peninsula and over the Arctic Sea.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev had told the Soviet Communist party congress that the current series of nuclear tests in the atmosphere would be concluded by exploding a 50-megaton bomb. Khrushchev brushed aside pleas to abandon plans to set off the giant bomb as "hysterical clamor."

The U.N. General Assembly on Friday sent an appeal to the Soviet Union to cancel plans to test a 50-megaton bomb.

Dr. Baath said today's explosion occurred 1,260 miles from Uppsala in a northeast direction. This would place it in the Novaya Zemlya area of the Arctic—the region where the Russians have been carrying on their test series since Sept. 1.

The biggest United States nuclear test bomb has been reported at 15 to 20 megatons.

The Swedish announcement of today's explosion came after a flurry of reports that the Soviets had let go with their promised giant bomb Sunday.

The French Atomic Energy Commission had reported that it was of 50-megaton strength but the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and seismologists in Sweden, London and Denmark attributed the disturbance to an earthquake near Vancouver, B.C.

The Soviet explosion also was recorded at seismographic stations at the University of Bergen, Norway, and outside Copenhagen, Denmark. Danish scientists figured its force at two and a half times that of last Monday's bomb.

Radio Moscow in morning broadcasts made no mention of the explosion and there was nothing about it in Soviet newspapers.

U.S. Army Moves Freely by Reds

BERLIN (AP)—U.S. military units from West Berlin traveled to West Germany today on the autobahn lifeline without hindrance from the Russians, who stopped two American vehicles Sunday.

The U.S. command in Berlin

described the movement as a redeployment. It said the departing units will be replaced shortly by a company of engineers, leaving the Berlin garrison at 6,500-man strength.

The movement actually got under way Sunday, the Army disclosed, even as the Russians barred two U.S. military assistance vehicles from entering the autobahn from Berlin at the Babelsberg checkpoint. A third assistance vehicle later was allowed to proceed.

Western officials speculated that the Soviet action in stopping two cars while allowing a third to pass might be a calculated move. They thought the Soviets might be reasserting objections they first made in 1952-53 to American patrols on the autobahn without creating a dangerous new East-West incident. By a 1953 agreement the Soviet army admitted responsibility for security on the highway.

By halting the assistance vehicles altogether, the Soviets could have provoked the U.S. Army into another show of force to safeguard Allied rights in Berlin.

The last show of force ended in an informal truce Saturday after American and Soviet tanks had stood on either side of the Berlin wall at the Friedrichstrasse crossing point for 16 hours with their guns trained at point blank range.

The tanks were rushed up after four U.S. armed thrusts into East Berlin during the week to uphold the right of American civilian officials to cross the border without submitting identity papers to East German police.

The Soviet tanks withdrew Saturday morning to an encampment in a war-ravaged palace on Unter den Linden. The American Pattons set up temporary positions near the far end of Friedrichstrasse.

$6.9 Billion U.S. Deficit Is Expected

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has increased his budget estimate for this fiscal year to $89 billion and expects $6.9 billion in red ink spending. The new estimates raise the virtual certainty that his next budget will cross the $90-billion mark.

Nevertheless, Kennedy's autumn budget review again assured taxpayers that the fiscal 1963 budget, to be sent to Congress in January, will be balanced—"barring extraordinary and unforeseen defense requirements." Fiscal 1962 is the current government year, which ends next June 30.

The third and latest Kennedy revision of the 1962 budget, originally drafted last January by outgoing President Dwight D. Eisenhower, was issued Sunday. Eisenhower had forecast a shaky $1.5-billion surplus. The new report restated the Kennedy administration's contention that Eisenhower was over-optimistic and should have predicted a $700-million deficit.

(An unbalanced budget is nothing new to the American taxpayer. In the last 31 years, only seven have seen income greater than expenditures. See James Marlow's analysis on Page 5.)

Halloween Parade Is Due Tonight

Goblins, witches and the usual touch of beauty will be prevalent in tonight's Halloween parade.

The annual parade, sponsored by the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce and Junior Chamber, will form at 7:30 on W. Franklin St. Judging and awarding of prizes will be conducted at the Blue Ribbon Dairy warehouse on E. Franklin St. following the downtown march.

The Circleville and Walnut Twp. High School Bands will participate in the procession.

U.S. To Try Berlin Bargain

Talks with Russians May Solve Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, seeking a peaceful end to the Berlin border dispute, has decided to try to make a bargain with the Soviet Union that could involve U.S. agreement to show official identification documents to East German border police.

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson has been instructed to make a new approach to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko early this week.

Officials said the Kennedy administration has decided that the East German demand to see identification cards of U.S. officials when they enter East Berlin does not threaten Western interests enough to bring on a shooting conflict. The British have been showing identification cards for some time.

The possibility of a deal is being considered under which Soviet authorities going into West Berlin would have to submit credentials to West German police. There was also discussion of bargaining for an increased number of crossing points into East Berlin for the Western allies if the United States is to accept the showing of credentials to East German police.

If a deal is made, it obviously would involve modification of U.S. policy on Berlin. Washington does not recognize the Communist East Berlin government and has blocked past efforts aimed at direct dealings of any kind with the regime.

On the other hand, officials said today, the United States and its allies have no intention of being excluded from East Berlin. If the East Germans should close the border entirely to Western officials, the United States, Britain and France have a plan to open it by force if necessary.

Village Jail Facts Bared

Bastille at Adelphi May Have Bear Tenant

The bare facts seem to be people in Pickaway County like bears.

And they like town jail's to keep them in.

Ray Pine of nearby Tarlton has a two-cell, six-bunk jail today and he says he bought it to keep bears in.

Pine was the highest bidder ($60) Saturday when the nearby village of Adelphi auctioned off the jail it hasn't used for 10 years.

Bidding against Pine was an unidentified South Bloomingville man who said he also wanted the iron cage to keep bears in.

Adelphi Marshal Marvin Spangler, brother of Pickaway County Sheriff Walton Spangler and champion hog-caller of the Circle-ville Pumpkin Show, said Pine told him he already had a bear to call the big cage home.

Why sell the village jail? Marsha Spangler said the town fire department (he's fire chief, too) needed the space worse than his law enforcement department.

But if Adelphi comes up with a prisoner, what then? Well, maybe brother Walton will get to worry about that — he's got all kinds of big city facilities in his Pickaway County lockup.

Tallmadge Police Chief Reinstated

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — James Boardman, police chief of suburban Tallmadge, got his job back today when the civil service commission changed his dismissal from the post to a 90-day suspension without pay.

The commission's ruling dates back to Sept. 11 when Paul C. Hill, Tallmadge mayor, dismissed Boardman. The chief was accused of pocketing for his own use $56.10 paid as a fine by an Akron man charged with intoxication.

A state examiner's investigation revealed Boardman had cashed the check. Boardman pleaded innocent and appealed the case.

The commission said Boardman was guilty of incompetence, inefficiency, and to a certain degree neglect of duty. It felt the dismissal was too severe a penalty, and ordered the suspension which ends Dec. 10.

Dr. Marcus A. Baath of the Uppsala Seismological Institution said the explosion recorded there was "more than 2½ times as strong" as last Monday's blast, which was estimated in the range of 30 megatons.

A megaton has the force of one million tons of TNT, and a 50-megaton bomb would be 2,500 times as powerful as the first U.S. atomic bombs exploded over Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

At Bodoe, Norway's new radiation warning command said the prevailing winds were carrying the radioactive cloud from the explosion away from the Scandinavian peninsula and over the Arctic Sea.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev had told the Soviet Communist party congress that the current series of nuclear tests in the atmosphere would be concluded by exploding a 50-megaton bomb. Khrushchev brushed aside pleas to abandon plans to set off the giant bomb as "hysterical clamor."

The U.N. General Assembly on Friday sent an appeal to the Soviet Union to cancel plans to test a 50-megaton bomb.

Dr. Baath said today's explosion occurred 1,260 miles from Uppsala in a northeast direction. This would place it in the Novaya Zemlya area of the arctic—the region where the Russians have been carrying on their test series since Sept. 1.

The biggest United States nuclear test bomb has been reported at 15 to 20 megatons.

The Swedish announcement of today's explosion came after a flurry of reports that the Soviets had let go with their promised giant bomb Sunday.

The French Atomic Energy Commission had reported that it was of 50-megaton strength but the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and seismologists in Sweden, London and Denmark attributed the disturbance to an earthquake near Vancouver, B.C.

The Soviet explosion also was recorded at seismographic stations at the University of Bergen, Norway, and outside Copenhagen, Denmark. Danish scientists figured its force at two and a half times that of last Monday's bomb.

Radio Moscow in morning broadcasts made no mention of the explosion and there was nothing about it in Soviet newspapers.

U.S. Army Moves Freely by Reds

BERLIN (AP) — U.S. military units from West Berlin traveled to West Germany today on the autobahn lifeline without hindrance from the Russians, who stopped two American vehicles Sunday.

The U.S. command in Berlin

described the movement as a redeployment. It said the departing units will be replaced shortly by a company of engineers, leaving the Berlin garrison at 6,500-man strength.

The movement actually got under way Sunday, the Army disclosed, even as the Russians barred two U.S. military assistance vehicles from entering the autobahn from Berlin at the Ebersberg checkpoint. A third assistance vehicle later was allowed to proceed.

Western officials speculated that the Soviet action in stopping two cars while allowing a third to pass might be a calculated move. They thought the Soviets might be reasserting objections they first made in 1952-53 to American patrols on the autobahn without creating a dangerous new East-West incident. By a 1953 agreement the Soviet army admitted responsibility for security on the highway.

By halting the assistance vehicles altogether, the Soviets could have provoked the U.S. Army into another show of force to safeguard Allied rights in Berlin.

The last show of force ended in an informal truce Saturday after American and Soviet tanks had stood on either side of the Berlin wall at the Friedrichstrasse crossing point for 16 hours with their guns trained at point blank range.

The tanks were rushed up after four U.S. armed thrusts into East Berlin during the week to uphold the right of American civilian officials to cross the border without submitting identity papers to East German police.

The Soviet tanks withdrew Saturday morning to an encampment in a war-ravaged palace on Unter den Linden. The American Patrols set up temporary positions near the far end of Friedrichstrasse.

$6.9 Billion U.S. Deficit Is Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has increased his budget estimate for this fiscal year to $89 billion and expects $6.9 billion in red ink spending. The new estimates raise the virtual certainty that his next budget will cross the $90-billion mark.

Nevertheless, Kennedy's autumn budget review again assured taxpayers that the fiscal 1963 budget, to be sent to Congress in January, will be balanced—"barring extraordinary and unforeseen defense requirements." Fiscal 1962 is the current government year, which ends next June 30.

The third and latest Kennedy revision of the 1962 budget originally drafted last January by outgoing President Dwight D. Eisenhower, was issued Sunday. Eisenhower had forecast a shaky $1.5-billion surplus. The new report restated the Kennedy administration's contention that Eisenhower was over-optimistic and should have predicted a $700-million deficit.

Halloween Parade Is Due Tonight

Goblins, witches and the usual touch of beauty will be prevalent in tonight's Halloween parade.

The annual parade, sponsored by the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce and Junior Chamber, will form at 7:30 on W. Franklin St. Judging and awarding of prizes will be conducted at the Blue Ribbon Dairy warehouse on E. Franklin St. following the downtown march.

The Circleville and Walnut Twp. High School Bands will participate in the procession.

U.S. To Try Berlin Bargain

Talks with Russians May Solve Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, seeking a peaceful end to the Berlin border dispute, has decided to try to make a bargain with the Soviet Union that could involve U.S. agreement to show official identification documents to East German border police.

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson has been instructed to make a new approach to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko early this week.

Officials said the Kennedy administration has decided that the East German demand to see identification cards of U.S. officials when they enter East Berlin does not threaten Western interests enough to bring on a shooting conflict. The British have been showing identification cards for some time.

The possibility of a deal is being considered under which Soviet authorities going into West Berlin would have to submit credentials to West German police. There was also discussion of bargaining for an increased number of crossing points into East Berlin for the Western allies if the United States is to accept the showing of credentials to East German police.

If a deal is made, it obviously would involve modification of U.S. policy on Berlin. Washington does not recognize the Communist East Berlin government and has blocked past efforts aimed at direct dealings of any kind with the regime.

On the other hand, officials said today, the United States and its allies have no intention of being excluded from East Berlin. If the East Germans should close the border entirely to Western officials, the United States, Britain and France have a plan to open it by force if necessary.

Taylor Reported Cool On Use of U.S. Troops

MANILA (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor arrived today to complete a report to President Kennedy that informants said is expected to advise against sending American combat troops to Communist-threatened South Viet Nam.

Kennedy's military adviser and his aides went into seclusion at the Philippine mountain resort city of Baguio after his fact-finding mission to Southeast Asia.

Open House This Week

Scioto Building & Loan Co. Observes 40th Anniversary

The Scioto Building and Loan Co. this week is celebrating its 40th anniversary with an open house at the firm's office, 157 W. Main St.

Chester McKenzie, managing officer, said the founding anniversary will be observed the entire week. The public is invited. Souvenirs will be available.

Officials of Scioto Building and Loan today said the confidence of its savers and patrons has enabled the firm to increase its assets ten-fold during the last 10 years.

When the Scioto Co. first received its charter from the Building and Loan Division of the Ohio Department of Commerce, Circleville and Pickaway County were just beginning to flex their growing muscles. The community and the firm have grown together since that time.

COMPANY officials noted that when the firm was founded in 1921, an advertisement by a Circleville financial institution of that day was published informing citizens loans were hard to obtain. The ad went on to explain that persons seeking to borrow money should apply at once, but not to expect to receive the loan until after the first of the year.

In spite of this early beginning in 1921 when borrowing was difficult, Scioto has made approximately 4,000 loans to home owners, representing a total of $5 million.

The firm received its incorporation papers from the Ohio Secretary of State on Dec. 10, 1921. The incorporators were C. F. Abernathy, J. C. Goeller, O. S. Howard, E. S. Neuding and S. C. Gamble. The first office was in the upstairs portion of the Masonic Hall.

In 1954 the company advanced another step forward by moving into its new modern quarters at 157 W. Main St. McKenzie became managing officer following the death of F. W. Sieverts.

McKenzie served many years in the finance field prior to his affiliation with Scioto Building and Loan.

The Board of Directors of Scioto are all from Circleville. In addition to McKenzie they are George C. Barnes, president, realtor; Lawrence J. Johnson, vice president, insurance agent; and Carl C. Leist, treasurer, and Richard W. Penn, both attorneys.

Scioto Building & Loan Co. Observes 40th Anniversary

The Scioto Building and Loan Co. this week is celebrating its 40th anniversary with an open house at the firm's office, 157 W. Main St.

Chester McKenzie, managing officer, said the founding anniversary will be observed the entire week. The public is invited. Souvenirs will be available.

Officials of Scioto Building and Loan today said the confidence of its savers and patrons has enabled the firm to increase its assets ten-fold during the last 10 years. When the Scioto Co. first received its charter from the Building and Loan Division of the Ohio Department of Commerce, Circleville and Pickaway County were just beginning to flex their growing muscles. The community and the firm have grown together since that time.

COMPANY officials noted that when the firm was founded in 1921, an advertisement by a Circleville financial institution of that day was published informing citizens loans were hard to obtain. The ad went on to explain that persons seeking to borrow money, should apply at once, but not to expect to receive the loan until after the first of the year.

In spite of this early beginning in 1921 when borrowing was difficult, Scioto has made approximately 4,000 loans to home owners, representing a total of $5 million.

The firm received its incorporation papers from the Ohio Secretary of State on Dec. 10, 1921. The incorporators were C. F. Abernathy, J. C. Goeller, O. S. Howard, E. S. Neuding and S. C. Gamble. The first office was in the upstairs portion of the Masonic Hall.

In 1954 the company advanced another step forward by moving into its new modern quarters at 157 W. Main St. McKenzie became managing officer following the death of F. W. Sieverts.

McKenzie served many years in the finance field prior to his affiliation with Scioto Building and Loan. The Board of Directors of Scioto are all from Circleville. In addition to McKenzie they are George C. Barnes, president, realtor; Lawrence J. Johnson, vice president, insurance agent; and Carl C. Leist, treasurer, and Richard W. Penn, both attorneys.

Union, Chrysler Resume Parley

DETROIT (AP)—Top-level negotiators from Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers union go back to the bargaining table today to attempt to wrap up a new contract by Tuesday.

Unless it has a new agreement in hand by 8 p.m. Tuesday, the union has told Chrysler in effect it will be struck by that time Thursday night.
Chrysler is the only one of the automotive big three still without a new three-year contract with the UAW. General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. signed earlier. Smallish American Motors Corp. signed ahead of anybody.

Gypsy State

For 5,000 years, since they left the Indus region in India, gypsies have wandered the face of the earth. Now the eternal wanderers plan to settle down in a homeland of their own.

Chief Vaida Voievod III of the European gypsy community says the United Nations will be asked to sponsor a gypsy state. So, next month the Roms, as European gypsies are known, are to hold congress at the Paris headquarters of the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization to decide where the new state should be located. An island in the Pacific or the Atlantic has been suggested as the possible site.

The gypsies suffered dreadfully under the nazis during the war, when an estimated 3.5 million died. Today there are about 9 million roaming nearly every country, and whether they live in Russia, Brazil or the U. S., they speak the same language — Romany. They will call their country Romanestan and have already adopted a green and blue national flag.

How a nomadic people with so little organization has survived through the ages is an ethnological puzzle. The race has produced gypsy music and preserved a language distinctly its own, though its traditions are oral rather than literary. But if sufficient of these carefree people in a hardworking world are willing to take on the responsibility and labors of creating a new state they should be given the opportunity.

Consumer Dollar Shifts

One of the numerous surveys by the federal government turns up the fact that the consumer dollar was divided 65 cents for goods and 35 cents for services in 1953. By 1960 goods were getting only 60 cents of the consumer dollar and services 40 cents.

And the shift of just one nickel per dollar takes $16 billion from goods per year and adds it to services.

This happens always during a boom era. At the peak of the period preceding the great depression, goods and services were sharing the consumer dollar 50-50.

Whether services do as much for a nation's economy as goods is a moot question. There is no doubt on one point, however. Costs of services rise faster than prices of goods and accelerate the rising cost of living.

Under services, of course, come medical and hospital care, the beautician, the car washer and so on. Those who produce food, clothing, furniture, automobiles, etc., take a relatively smaller share as people relinquish their do-it-yourself habits.

Both goods and services are prime sources of employment and therefore contribute strongly to economic well being. But the shift in emphasis is part of the ever-continuing evolutionary process in the commercial world which keeps the workaday entrepreneur on his toes to figure out what is coming next.

Safer on Job Than at Home

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

You are actually safer at work today than at home. Accidental deaths on the job have fallen from about 34 per 100,000 employees in 1939 to 22 in 1960.

The canine world is having a population explosion, too. The United States now has more than 26 million dogs, more than twice as many as in 1930.

The winter vacation has become a new status symbol in industry. A study by a travel agency found that more top business executives now take their vacations in fall or winter than in summer.

More than 75 per cent of American employees get coffee breaks on company time.

Men still contend women are poor drivers, but British insurance companies don't agree. They are reducing the premiums for women motorists by 10 per cent.

Out quotable notables: "American women expect to find in their husbands a perfection that English women only hope to find in their butlers" — W. Somerset Maugham.

"Alaska" is a word in the language of Aleutian Islands natives meaning "the great land." The number of divorces has risen sharply as they have been made easier to get. In 1960 there was one divorce for every 250 existing U. S. marriages. In 1945 the rate had risen to one divorce for every 60 marriages. It's still climbing.

Women will never attain equal rights until they get more ulcers. One of every 100 Americans has an ulcer, but men get them three times as often as women.

One thing that has dropped in price is the cost of straightening a child's teeth. In the 1930s the average case took three years and cost $2,500. Now it takes two years and costs $100.

Worth remembering: "Tomorrow belongs to those who don't wait for it."

Every two minutes an American home is destroyed or damaged by fire. Such fires last year cost more than 6,000 lives.

Christopher Columbus discovered not only America but also the cacao bean. Spain kept the art of making chocolate a secret from the rest of Europe for nearly 100 years. Chocolate sold for more than $3 a pound, so only the aristocracy could afford to drink it.

It was Oliver Wendell Holmes who observed, "Man has his will, but woman has her way."

He Knows U.S. Well

By George Sokolsky

Dr. Cheddi Jagan, the boss of British Guiana, knows the United States well. He was a student in this country, in Chicago, where he married a girl who was reputed to be a Communist. He is, by birth, an East Indian whose family settled in British Guiana which lies in the north shore of South America.

British Guiana is a small country of only 90,000 square miles. It was originally founded by the Dutch but was taken over by the British in 1781. It was not, however, until 1815, at the Congress of Vienna, that it finally was acknowledged as British. Currently the population is estimated to be about 444,000, of whom 42 per cent are East Indians and 38 per cent are Chinese. Its economy is principally based on agriculture and minerals. Bauxite is the most important mineral product, although the area does produce gold and diamonds. The agricultural exports include sugar, rum, rice and some coffee and cacao. It is not a poor country for its size.

The economy is essentially British. The invested capital is British. The East Indians were brought into the country by the British to provide a labor force. Japan's power is based on the extensive East Indian population which gives him a solid political base.

Dr. Cheddi Jagan now avoids declaring himself to be a Communist but his history leaves nothing to the imagination. There is no question of his close relations to Moscow. Thus, the Soviet Union State has two heads of government in Latin America who will accept the Kremlin program namely Castro in Cuba and Jagan in British Guiana. The men are different in all respects. Casto is Latin by birth and by education; Jagan is an East Indian whose early education was in British schools and who completed his studies in Chicago. Jagan appears to be more cultured. Nevertheless, Jagan's whole line of political activity, prior to becoming Prime Minister of British Guiana, has been pro - Russian. He now seeks American financial aid but would accept Russian aid.

The first test of Jagan's attitude will appear in his sequestration of British-owned property, particularly the sugar cane lands. He has indicated that he will take over private property as soon as the British governor leaves, probably sometime in 1962. This is the pattern that Castro established in Cuba and the Communists pursued in all countries.

The State Department is pursuing a policy of dealing with Jagan with its eyes closed to realities. Their attitude is that as long as he is Prime Minister, they have to deal with him. However, they would not deal with Trujillo, although he was head of state. The realities of the situation require that we reject Jagan as a Communist until he proves by his conduct that he is not one.

The growth of Communist influence upon the American continent is indeed perilous. Soviet Russia can defeat us on American continental soil without fighting a battle. Should the Cuban Communist base be disturbed, the Kremlin will have another base ready in British Guiana, with a base in the making in Brazil. From a Russian standpoint, everything is going well and Jagan's emergence as Prime Minister of British Guiana is a particular victory, cheaply won by Soviet Russia.

The question must be asked why an American educated person, married to an American woman, prefers Soviet Russia to the United States. There must be something wrong with our system of education and in our social institutions that so many young people who have benefited from our way of life have turned against us. In China, large numbers of American Returned Students, as they are called, graduates of American colleges and universities, are the supporters of the Communist movement. In Africa, many graduates of American colleges are in the so-called neutralist governments, which tend to move further to the left each year.

An experience cannot be so widespread and general without some explanation. The State Department kids itself that it will change Jagan's attitude by a visit to the White House and a small loan as a starter. There is not one instance to show that loans and aid have produced a pro-American attitude or that a visit to the White House has made any one pro-American.

Maybe one of the foundations, seeking a place to spend its money, may set up a study of this chagrining phenomenon.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A CROOK high on the list of "most wanted" by the police of 20 states sneaked up the stairs of an ornate suburban mansion, headed for a cache of diamonds and pearls, when from the bedroom a shrill voice was heard:

"What do you mean, I spend too much money on clothes? That chin-chilla you're always yapping about is four years old. I haven't had a new evening dress in months. Your partner's wife spends more on herself in one week than I do in two years... Blah, blah, blah..."

The crook tiptoed out of the house and rejoined his accomplice on the lawn. "It's no use," he sighed. "I can't go through with it. It's too much like robbing my own home."

A sign in an East Side delicatessen proclaimed, "ICI ON PARLE FRANCAIS. WIR SPRECHEN DEUTSCH. HIER REDT MAN YIDDISH. HABLO ESPANOL."

"Holy mackerel," exclaimed an admiring customer. "Do you speak all those languages?" "Not me," conceded the proprietor of the delicatessen. "My customers."

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M.D.
"No cure for a cold impossible!"

It's true. No medicine can cure that runny nose, hacking cough and scratchy throat caused by any of 30 different viruses.

You have to rest while the cold burns itself out. Crawl into bed! Tired resistance crumbles at the slightest complication.

A stiff nip may numb aches and pains, but the same relief pours from aspirin bottles. Aspirin—powdered, buffered, combinations of ingredients—don't cure. They merely soothe the misery for a few hours.

Enjoy fruit juices! Eat if you're hungry, but don't stuff yourself. A stuffy nose is enough!

Honk and snort to clear congested nostrils. But gently, or you'll blast germs back to the ear or up into sinuses.

A handkerchief or tissue grounds millions of germs before they take off to surround some innocent victim. Irritating mucus and constant rubbing reddens and inflames the unprotected skin. Sticky petroleum jelly can protect against this sore chap.

Drops, sprays and decongestant tablets all shrink swollen membrane and open clogged nostrils. Neosynephrine (N) (phenylephrine) 1/4-1/2 per cent works well; ask your doctor. Detergent-filled sprays easily penetrate thick mucus.

Coughing clears air passages. But choose your weapon when a dry hack keeps you up and brings up nothing — a doctor's prescription, ordinary cough syrup or homemade — half honey and half lemon juice.

Hot drinks and steamy vaporizers loosen mucus and soothe irritated membranes. Steam medicines, even without "medicating" menthol — like aroma.

Complications explode when cold inflammation ignites germs you've been carrying for years. Laryngitis, bronchitis and pneumonia can overwhelm you. But powerful germ-killers — which can't stop a milk cold — can usually force these invaders into unconditional surrender.

Cold epidemics spread because you're contagious long before the very first sniffle. Rocket age research is still hunting for the magic solution to this cold war, too!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Flu Vaccine Demand Exhausting Supply

WASHINGTON (AP)—Unusual and unexpected public demand for influenza vaccine has caused a nationwide shortage in the product, the Public Health Service reported.

The service said manufacturers have produced twice as much flu vaccine this year as in recent years but still have been unable to meet the demand.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP)—Some 2,000 businessmen today start a three-day preliminary bout in what should be one of the toughest fought battles of the weeks and months just ahead.

At home the combatants are the advocates of lowering our trade barriers further and those who demand more protection against growing foreign competition. It's shaping up as the biggest tariff battle in years. The knockdown is expected when Congress reconvenes.

In the world ring, the battle that threatens to grow ever sharper pits Uncle Sam against the Common Market in Western Europe, the British Commonwealth and Japan.

President Kennedy has just moved to put American exporters on a more competitive credit basis with those of other lands who have been taking some of our markets. The Export-Import Bank and private insurance companies will cooperate in financing and insuring export ventures.

The 2,000 businessmen and bankers are being joined here by 400 observers—U.S. government officials, educators, students, and foreign diplomats—at the National Foreign Trade Convention. High on the agenda is American trade survival against growing economic integration in Europe and Latin America.

This week five U. S. Cabinet members—the secretaries of state, commerce, labor, interior and agriculture—go to Japan for talks Nov. 3 on what to do about American and Japanese trade competition. Also, they will consider how the two nations are going to make out as Western European competition increases, especially if Britain joins the Common Market—France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxembourg.

American businessmen meeting here hope to work out their own survival plans. They also expect to hear from Undersecretary of State George W. Ball details of any upcoming changes in the official U.S. policy on world trade.

The administration is expected by most observers to come out strongly for lower trade barriers here as the best way to get more American goods into Western Europe, where internal barriers are falling to the likely disadvantage of outsiders, such as the United States.

Many at the convention here are known to favor freer trade all around as helping everyone in the long run. They would put the accent on lowering our production costs and raising the quality of our goods as the best competitive gambit.

But others are just as firm in their protests that some American industries are suffering badly from the inflow of cheaper foreign goods. They are demanding that if the administration won't raise barriers against such goods, the Congress should. Tempers are rising, and the new session will fall in an election year.

The United States is exporting more goods this year than it is importing. Latest figures show exports running at $19.8 billion a year and imports at $15.2 billion. But this summer exports were slackening while imports were rising. So manufacturers who export are edgy, and those whose goods must compete with the growing imports are aroused.

Gypsy State

For 5,000 years, since they left the Indus region in India, gypsies have wandered the face of the earth. Now the eternal wanderers plan to settle down in a homeland of their own.

Chief Vaida Voievod III of the European gypsy community says the United Nations will be asked to sponsor a gypsy state. So, next month the Roms, as European gypsies are known, are to hold congress at the Paris headquarters of the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization to decide where the new state should be located. An island in the Pacific or the Atlantic has been suggested as the possible site.

The gypsies suffered dreadfully under the nazis during the war, when an estimated 3.5 million died. Today there are about 9 million roaming nearly every country, and whether they live in Russia, Brazil or the U. S., they speak the same language — Romany. They will call their country Romanestan and have already adopted a green and blue national flag.

How a nomadic people with so little organization has survived through the ages is an ethnological puzzle. The race has produced gypsy music and preserved a language distinctly its own, though its traditions are oral rather than literary. But if sufficient of these carefree people in a hardworking world are willing to take on the responsibility and labors of creating a new state they should be given the opportunity.

Consumer Dollar Shifts

One of the numerous surveys by the federal government turns up the fact that the consumer dollar was divided 65 cents for goods and 35 cents for services in 1953. By 1960 goods were getting only 60 cents of the consumer dollar and services 40 cents.

And the shift of just one nickel per dollar takes $16 billion from goods per year and adds it to services.

This happens always during a boom era. At the peak of the period preceding the great depression, goods and services were sharing the consumer dollar 50-50.

Whether services do as much for a nation's economy as goods is a moot question. There is no doubt on one point, however. Costs of services rise faster than prices of goods and accelerate the rising cost of living.

Under services, of course, come medical and hospital care, the beautician, the car washer and so on. Those who produce food, clothing, furniture, automobiles, etc., take a relatively smaller share as people relinquish their do-it-yourself habits.

Both goods and services are prime sources of employment and therefore contribute strongly to economic well being. But the shift in emphasis is part of the ever-continuing evolutionary process in the commercial world which keeps the workaday entrepreneur on his toes to figure out what is coming next.

Alice Faye, Now a Grandma, Returns to Hollywood Scene

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sixteen years ago, Alice Faye turned the key of her dressing room door at 20th Century-Fox and drove off the lot. She didn't return.

"I'd had it," she recalls. "I had gotten married to Phil (Harris) and I'd had my daughter Alice and then Phyllis. That seemed more important to me."

"Besides, I was mad about that last picture I had made, 'Fallen Angel.' I was doing it with Otto Preminger and I loved 'Laura,' which he had done. I was hoping for the same sort of picture, something that would get me into dramatic parts."

"They cut my big scenes right out of the picture. The studio was building up Linda Darnell at the time, and they made her scenes more important. Now I love Linda, but I didn't think they should be doing that to me."

"So I gave them the key and told them to keep it. I didn't even take my things with me. I understand they've still got a couple of trunks full of stuff of mine. Might be fun to go through it some day."

Alice is back on the old home lot, looking much the same as she did in her heyday — round-faced, blonde and cheerful. She is playing Pat Boone's mother, of all things, in a third go at "State Fair." It doesn't seem to bother her, being recently a grandmother.

All grandmothers should look so good. All stars should be such charmers. Alice belongs to the old school of film personalities, the ones who had a ball doing their jobs.

Alice came to Hollywood for "George White's Scandals of 1934" and was queen of the lot until the war years, when a girl named Betty Grable came along. Then Grable was queen until a girl named Marilyn Monroe came along. And so it goes.

Alice lived in contented retirement, mostly at the Harrises' Palm Springs home. When the call came for "State Fair," she was ready. She presented the same dimensions to the wardrobe department as when she left 16 years ago.

The World Today

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — A week ago former President Eisenhower, complaining about the Kennedy administration's spending, asked "What's going to happen to our country if we can't pay our debts in this time of prosperity?"

It's a good question, but an old one. It's a question Eisenhower must have asked himself at times when he was in the White House, and President Truman before him.

It was prompted by the realization that the Kennedy administration—for the 1962 fiscal year which began last July 1—will be in the red.

President Kennedy confirmed it Sunday by releasing a budget report which showed that for the 1962 fiscal year government expenses will be around $89 billion while income will be about $82.1 billion, making a deficit of $6.9 billion.

He boosted government spending this year and blamed it mainly on the need to shovel out more money for defense, foreign obligations and space development. But the country must be getting used to seeing government spending exceed its revenue.

In the past 31 years government income was greater than its expenses only seven times.

It happened in 1930, in President Hoover's administration; three times in the seven years of Truman's administration; and three times in Eisenhower's eight years.

The country stayed in the red without a break through the 12 years of President Roosevelt, who first had to cope with a depression, then with a gigantic defense buildup and then with the biggest of all wars.

Eisenhower himself—who was swept into office in 1952 partly on the strength of a promise to balance the budget and cut federal spending—in 1959 had the biggest deficit in American peacetime history: $12.4 billion.

Truman, who took over when Roosevelt died in 1945, didn't wind up with a surplus until 1947. He did it again in 1948. He slid into the red once more in 1949 and 1950. He managed a surplus one more time: in fiscal 1951.

But by then the costs of the Korean War engulfed him and economy went out the window. Eisenhower, despite the optimism of his 1952 campaign talk, didn't achieve a surplus until fiscal 1956. He repeated in fiscal 1957 and 1960. The rest of his eight years were red ones. He had his troubles, too. He got hit with recessions.

Even Kennedy's estimates—a deficit of no more than $6.9 billion in fiscal 1962—may turn out to be far too much on the sunny side if world conditions worsen and more defense spending is needed.

He has called on his Cabinet officers to economize. He says his administration has cut expenses in a number of ways through increased efficiency. But the government's obligations in a troubled world and a growing country still increase.

MARY V. GUENTHER → CANDIDATE FOR CIRCLEVILLE CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT BOARD

Dear Friends,

Yes, I am Mary V. Guenther (Mrs. "Bus" Palm Guenther), a candidate for your Circleville School District School Board; — and I ask for your vote when you go to the polls on November 7.

I ask for your vote, not for the honor of the office, but because I feel I can be of service to you parents to help improve our schools. I am confident you are interested in school board members who by their deeds merit your confidence and support. I am also confident I have the courage to act in and support the interests of the people I would represent.

I want qualified people to teach our children and handle the school affairs. I am sure you also are interested in the same things.

You choose your friends and business associates by their honesty, ability, experience and accuracy in handling their affairs. I hope you will judge me by these same standards.

You know me as an interested parent and an active participant in school and community affairs.

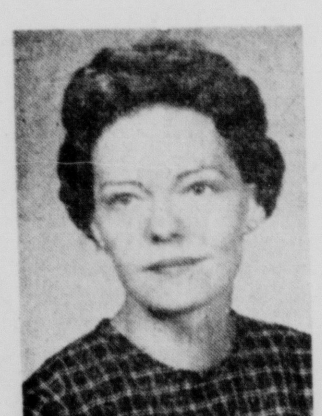

Remember, your support will be appreciated.

Vote for Mary V. Guenther.

Yours for better schools,

X MARY V. GUENTHER

It happened in 1930, in President Hoover's administration; three times in the seven years of Truman's administration; and three times in Eisenhower's eight years.

The country stayed in the red without a break through the 12 years of President Roosevelt, who first had to cope with a depression, then with a gigantic defense buildup and then with the biggest of all wars.

Eisenhower himself—who was swept into office in 1952 partly on the strength of a promise to balance the budget and cut federal spending—in 1959 had the biggest deficit in American peacetime history: $12.4 billion.

Truman, who took over when Roosevelt died in 1945, didn't wind up with a surplus until 1947. He did it again in 1948. He slid into the red once more in 1949 and 1950. He managed a surplus one more time: in fiscal 1951.

But by then the costs of the Korean War engulfed him and economy went out the window.

Eisenhower, despite the optimism of his 1952 campaign talk, didn't achieve a surplus until fiscal 1956. He repeated in fiscal 1957 and 1960. The rest of his eight years were red ones. He had his troubles, too. He got hit with recessions.

Even Kennedy's estimates—a deficit of no more than $6.9 billion in fiscal 1962—may turn out to be far too much on the sunny side if world conditions worsen and more defense spending is needed.

He has called on his Cabinet officers to economize. He says his administration has cut expenses in a number of ways through increased efficiency. But the government's obligations in a troubled world and a growing country still increase.

MARY V. GUENTHER → CANDIDATE FOR CIRCLEVILLE CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT BOARD

Dear Friends,

Yes, I am Mary V. Guenther (Mrs. "Bus" Palm Guenther), a candidate for your Circleville School District School Board; — and I ask for your vote when you go to the polls on November 7.

I ask for your vote, not for the honor of the office, but because I feel I can be of service to you parents to help improve our schools. I am confident you are interested in school board members who by their deeds merit your confidence and support. I am also confident I have the courage to act in and support the interests of the people I would represent.

I want qualified people to teach our children and handle the school affairs. I am sure you also are interested in the same things.

You choose your friends and business associates by their honesty, ability, experience and accuracy in handling their affairs. I hope you will judge me by these same standards.

You know me as an interested parent and an active participant in school and community affairs.

Remember, your support will be appreciated.

Vote for Mary V. Guenther.

Yours for better schools,

X MARY V. GUENTHER

Don't forget to vote. I'm counting on your support.

Cub Scout Pack No. 155 Receives Merit Awards

Members of Cub Scout Pack No. 155 gathered for an October pack meeting Tuesday night in the First EUB service center.

All cub scouts and den mothers were in costume for a masquerade.

A highlight of the evening was ghost stories told by Cubs Robert Thomas, Skip Bethel, Bryce Brown, Robert Perkins and David Winks Jr.

Following the group song - fest, a short business session was conducted by Cubmaster Gerald Ayers who awarded Bobcat pins to Michael Coates, Rickie Prushing, Ronald Snyder, Harrell Moore and David Lingo; Wolf patches to Paul Jacobs and Rickie Keydon; a Lion patch to Calvin Biars and a Bear patch to Dayrel Huffer.

Gary Martin received a gold arrow point, one silver arrow point and a one - year service pin.

Others receiving pins were Pyrus Ankrum, two - year service; and Donald Coates and David Justice, one - year service.

A one - year service pin also was awarded to Den Mother Mrs. Oakley Thomas, and Denmother Mrs. Merle Bethel received a two-year service pin.

Following the awards, parents viewed the exhibit tables displayed by the cub scouts. Cub Gary Martin gave a closing prayer after which refreshments were served to cubs and their families.

Dinner, Discussion, Fun Highlight Boosters' Meet

The first autumn meeting of the GOP Boosters' Club was held Thursday in the home of Mrs. Harry Styers, 957 S. Pickaway St.

Mrs. Roger Jury led the group in repeating the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. This was followed by group singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic".

Mrs. Charles W. Winner gave the secretary - treasurer's report and Mrs. Wayne Stonerock reported on the flower fund.

Miss Lucille Dumm, who conducted the business meeting, spoke on the subject "Surrender In Berlin". Following her talk, club members participated in a group discussion. Miss Dumm then read "My Creed" by Dean Alfonso. To conclude, she stressed the importance of voting in the coming election.

After the business session, names were drawn for a Christmas gift exchange.

A dinner was served by the hostesses to club members seated around a large table appropriately decorated in an autumn theme.

For the social hour, games were played and prizes awarded to Mrs. Roy Dumm, Miss Lucille Dumm and Mrs. Wayne Stonerock. Mrs. Roger Jury won the door prize.

Mrs. H. E. Valentine and Mrs. George Mavis will be hostesses for the club's November meeting.

Mrs. L. E. Foreman Hosts Luncheon Meet

A surprise luncheon in a Halloween theme highlighted the day for members of the Community Circle Demonstration Club at a meeting Wednesday in the home of Mrs. L. E. Foreman, 142 Park Place.

The business session began with the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison. The group decided to make Christmas candles at the November meeting.

After the luncheon served by Mrs. Foreman, the club members conducted a tour which included an antique shop near Kingston owned by Mrs. Ruth Morris Macklin and a craft shop, also near Kingston, owned by Mrs. Ed Ingram.

Those attending the luncheon meet were Miss Mary Clark, Mrs. E. J. Stucker, Mrs. Glenn Rinehart, Mrs. Lucille Hickman, Mrs. Katherine Dumm, Mrs. Alfred Cook, Mrs. Walter Cummins, Mrs. Cecil Ward, Mrs. C. W. Hedges, Mrs. Harry Trump, Mrs. Paul Stout, Mrs. Lewis Berry, Mrs. Howard Koch, Mrs. Ethel Palsgrove, Mrs. C. P. Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Are You for Real?

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me exactly what you would do if you were in my place. Here is my problem:

I can't get up enough nerve to ask my tenants to pay me the eight months' back rent they owe from 1958. They are both working people with good jobs, and have no children. They are really wonderful people, and have been with me almost ten years. How can I approach them with this embarrassing subject without hurting their feelings?

LANDLADY
DEAR LANDLADY: Is your property on earth? You sound like a landlady who is out of this world. Ask them, with a smile, for the back rent. If they don't pay, substitute a written statement for the smile. Business is business.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have a darling baby girl, age 3. Eight months ago I went back to work to help pay off the car and our house and a few other things, and my mother offered to care for my child during the day. At first I felt quite lucky, because I knew my child would get the love and attention she was used to. Since then I have changed my mind. My mother has taken over completely, and I have nothing to say about my child's welfare. Before I went back to work the baby would sleep and eat on schedule, and never cause me any trouble. Now she is spoiled rotten, and does exactly as she pleases. I asked my mother please to follow my old schedule, and she told me if I didn't like the way she took care of my baby I should quit work and take care of her myself. Can you advise me?

WORKING MOTHER
DEAR WORKING: Your mother's advice is good. Take it!

DEAR ABBY: Another lady and I recently spent a week in a very fine hotel. Every morning a young woman came into the hotel dining room for breakfast with her husband and two sons. She was wearing a muu muu. (One of those shapeless sacks.) Is this proper attire for breakfast in a lovely hotel dining room?

VACATIONER
P.S. The lady was NOT "expecting."

DEAR VACATIONER: If the lady appeared in her muu muu day after day, she apparently was properly attired insofar as the hotel management was concerned, or they would have suggested she change.

P.S. How do YOU know?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LIVING FOR TODAY": Someone once said (and I don't know who), "Wifely waste makes woeeful want," and you may live to say, "Oh, how I wish I had the bread that once I threw away."

Powder Room Can Put Extra Space to Work

By ELEANOR ROSS

Even in a locality bright with new housing developments, there is never any difficulty in disposing of an old house — that is, if it has been kept in prime condition and has modern conveniences.

We have this on the word of a successful housing development builder.

This makes sense, for a lived-in house, kept in a state of perfect repair, isn't likely to develop the "bugs" that may afflict the newly-built home. So it is good to watch your investment — for a house is a prime investment — and add to its conveniences wherever possible. Then, if it goes on the market, you'll get your asking price.

One convenience that is a tremendous attraction to the home buyer is an attractively decorated powder room.

A home built when land and labor and material prices were not so steep is likely to have plenty of areas where such a powder room could be installed.

An unused pantry, a small first floor sewing room or sitting room or a large closet would be good powder room locations. Or perhaps it might be located in the area under an open stair well — or you might consider walling-off the end of a long hallway or corner of a large room.

Your local plumbing contractor will tell you that it is possible to have a powder room installed in an area as small as 12½ feet.

Even for the smallest of powder rooms there are fixtures that fit compactly.

An attractive lavatory unit should be the first fixture that meets the eye in a powder room.

A variety of decorative schemes may be employed in a powder room, as the fixtures are available in such colors as light blue, green, yellow, pink, ivory and suntan, as well as a new color, gray.

Once the fixture color is determined, the decorative scheme is set.

There are charming wall papers especially designed for powder rooms, such as powderbox and puff and an extra pretty paper with a design of a variety of perfume bottles.

Clutter should be kept at a minimum in such a small space.

Have corner shelves to hold supplies such as powder jars and bottles of hand lotion.

Before a party, see to it that the powder room is well stocked with everything necessary for the comfort of your guests for freshening up. Such attention is the hallmark of a considerate and successful hostess.

Delightful Dixie Treat: Hot Corn Cakes and Coffee

Once again, the griddle sizzles with a warm reminder of the old south. Dixie Corn Cakes are cooking — sweet corn pancakes crisply flavored with crumbled bacon. Next to the griddle, the coffee pot perks, timed to be ready just as the Corn Cakes are scooped onto the plates.

Naturally, Dixie Corn cakes make an ideal holiday breakfast, the kind that nobody in the household would think of skipping. But if you're partial to Sunday suppers by the fireside, you'll want to serve these wonderful hot cakes some evening when you have a few friends over for a light supper.

Dixie Corn Cakes should arrive, hot off the griddle, with butter melting over them. Then, bring on pitchers of hot maple or apple syrup and steaming cups of coffee. Just be sure the coffee pot doesn't run dry. There's nothing more hospitable than plenty of coffee for everyone as you whittle away at stacks of Dixie Corn Cakes.

If you use tenderizer on lamb shanks they'll be sure to be tender. Toast them in a slow oven — about 1½ hours if each shank weighs about a pound.

To make a quick sauce for a meat loaf, saute onion, green pepper and celery (all sliced thin) in a little butter or margarine and then heat with a can of condensed tomato soup and about a half-cup of water.

Delightful Dixie Treat: Hot Corn Cakes and Coffee

Once again, the griddle sizzles with a warm reminder of the old south. Dixie Corn Cakes are cooking — sweet corn pancakes crisply flavored with crumbled bacon. Next to the griddle, the coffee pot perks, timed to be ready just as the Corn Cakes are scooped onto the plates.

Naturally, Dixie Corn cakes make an ideal holiday breakfast, the kind that nobody in the household would think of skipping. But if you're part of a Sunday supper by the fireside, you'll want to serve these wonderful hot cakes some evening when you have a few friends over for a light supper.

Dixie Corn Cakes should arrive, hot off the griddle, with butter melting over them. Then, bring on pitchers of hot maple or apple syrup and steaming cups of coffee. Just be sure the coffee pot doesn't run dry. There's nothing more hospitable than plenty of coffee for everyone as you whittle away at stacks of Dixie Corn Cakes.

2 Ohio Grid Giants Fall

BGs, Wittenberg Taste First Losses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio's collegiate football front saw some dazzling deeds of derring-do Saturday.

Miami's Redskins, losers of four of six previous games, knocked Bowling Green's Falcons off 7-6 and threw the Mid-American race into a turmoil. Bob Jencks' conversion was the difference—one of seven games on the Ohio slate in which the foot decided the football game.

While the Falcons went down for the first time, Wittenberg's Lutherans were trampled 34-14 by Lenoir Rhyne after having allowed but six points in five previous starts.

With the fall of the two Goliaths, only three Buckeye clubs—Baldwin, Wallace, Otterbein and John Carroll—remained unsullied. All figure to stay that way this week when Baldwin Wallace plays Heidelberg, Otterbein goes against Ashland and John Carroll meets Wabash.

On the brighter side was Hiram 21-0 win over Mount Union, the first victory in 21 games for the Terriers. The Mounts tried to take it all by going for a two-point conversion on the last try—instead of settling for a one-pointer and a tie—but the play failed.

Finlay's Oilers won the Mid-Ohio League championship with a 16-8 win over Defiance for a 5-0 record, and Otterbein's 10-8 verdict over Marietta put the Cardinals out front in the Ohio Conference over Muskingum and Wittenberg. Otterbein is 5-0, the other two 4-0.

The Citadel nicked Xavier 7-6 by the extra point method, the same way Hiram and Miami triumphed. Field goals were the deciding factors in the wins by Otterbein, Capital over Wooster 16-8, Central State over Lincoln (Mo.) 16-14, and Ohio University over Delaware, 17-16. Jim McKee booted a 48-yarder with only a second left for the Bobcats, who scored all their points in the last quarter.

John Carroll's rousing 62-0 nod over Wayne State gave the Cleveland school a 4-0 mark in the Presidents' Conference for a deadlock with Allegheny. The latter won 33-14 over Case.

One of the big surprises was Cincinnati's 21-9 win over North Texas State. Unexpected results, insofar as the scoring margin is concerned, were Detroit's 41-12 decision over Dayton, and Youngstown's 30-0 loss to Hillsdale, Mich.

Jurgensen Shines As Successor to Great Van Brocklin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sonny Jurgensen, who collected splinters and experience while Norm Van Brocklin was directing the Philadelphia Eagles, has stepped in to guide the defending National Football League champions to the top of the Eastern Conference.

The 27-year-old former Duke standout passed the Eagles into sole possession of first place in the East Sunday with a three-touchdown performance—the last a 41-yard heave to Tommy McDonald with 16 seconds remaining to beat the upstart Washington Redskins, 27-24.

The TD toss to McDonald was Jurgensen's 14th of the season—top mark in the league—and gave the defending titlists a 6-1 record and a one-game edge over New York and Cleveland at the half-way mark of the expanded 14-game schedule.

The Giants dropped out of a first-place tie when Dallas' Allen Green kicked a 32-yard field goal with 1:23 remaining for a 17-16 Cowboy victory, and the Browns moved up by beating the St. Louis Cardinals, 21-10.

In the Western Conference, Green Bay kept rolling with a 28-10 thumping of Minnesota for its sixth consecutive victory since an opening game loss and maintained a one-game lead over the Chicago Bears, 21-20 conquerors of the Baltimore Colts. San Francisco fell back, losing to Pittsburgh 20-10. Detroit whipped Los Angeles, 28-10.

Jurgensen started the Eagles' desperation drive with 50 seconds remaining after the hapless Redskins, who list their seventh in succession and 15th over a two-season span, had taken the lead on a seven-yard flip from rookie Norm Snead to first-year fullback Jim Cunningham.

The Eagles began from their own 20 after the kickoff with Jurgensen firing 19 and 20 yard strikes to Bobby Walston, missing once, then arching the clincher to the speedy McDonald.

Green's winning field goal against the Giants (5-2) came after New York had come from behind to take a 16-14 lead on a five-yard touchdown pass from rookie halfback Bob Gaiters to Kyle Rote and Pat Summerall's three field goals. Eddie LeBaron had fired TD passes of 14 and 14 yards to Frank Clarke and Dick Bielski as the Cowboys (4-3) built a 14-0 lead.

The Browns (5-2) struck two touchdowns within 35 seconds in the first quarter, Bobby Franklin racing 19 yards on a fake field goal attempt and Milt Plum hitting Ray Renfro with a 12-yard pass after the Cards (3-4) fumbled the kickoff. Army-bound Bobby Mitchell, playing in his last game, rambled 56 yards for another Cleveland score.

Paul Hornung, who gets a physical today to determine his fitness for the Army, scored on a one-yard plunge, passed 10 yards to Ron Kramer for another touchdown and kicked four conversions as the Packers belted the Vikings (1-6). Hornung, the league's scoring leader, now has 102 points.

A pass interference moved the Bears (5-2) to the 17 in the fourth quarter against the Colts (3-4) and set up the winning touchdown. Rick Casares got it on a five-yard run and Roger LeClerc kicked the all-important extra point. The margin of victory was provided by linebacker Bill George, who broke through to block a conversion attempt by Steve Mhyra.

The Steelers (2-5) raced to a 17-0 first period lead against the 49ers (4-3) on a 30-yard TD jaunt by John Henry Johnson, an 11-yard pitch from Rudy Bukich to Tom Tracy and the first of Lou Michael's two field goals.

Jon Arnet of the Rams (1-6) ran a kickoff back 105 yards, one yard shy of the league record, but the Lion's (4-3) well-balanced attack got the job done. All four Detroit touchdowns came on short runs with Dan Lewis scoring twice and quarterback Jim Ninkowski and Ken Webb once each.

Coaches Mike Holovak of Boston and Wally Lemm of Houston, busy getting their teams into the American Football League's upper echelons, must thank their lucky stars every night for having such scoring machines as Gino Cappelletti and George Blanda.

Cappelletti, particularly, is a one-man point wave. He scores in every way imaginable and it doesn't matter whether it's in the clutch or not. Gino comes through anyway.

He scored 16 points when Boston, starting back up under new coach Holovak, scuttled Buffalo 32-21. Sunday he ran his season total to 100 points, far ahead of anybody else, when he won for Boston against Dallas.

Gino trotted out and kicked a 24-yard field goal as time ran out and Boston had an 18-17 triumph.

Blanda, a 12-year veteran of professional football, has been performing similarly for Houston, the defending league champion, in its resurgence. The only difference is that Blanda doesn't score as many points personally—he makes it possible for others to do it.

He threw three touchdown passes and kicked a 53-yard field goal in Houston's 38-7 conquest of Dallas. Sunday he passed for four touchdowns and set a record of 464 air yards while sending Houston to a 28-16 victory over Buffalo.

Today Boston is tied with New York for the lead in the Eastern Division of the AFL while Houston is in third place, just a half-game back. Houston hasn't played as many games as Boston.

New York stayed deadlocked for the lead with a 14-6 victory over Oakland. It was the first time in 21 games that Al Dorow didn't pass for a touchdown but Bill Mathis took up the slack—he made two running.

The Western Division of the league has reached that ho-hum stage. San Diego refuses to lose a game or give anybody any hope of winning one. The talented Chargers ripped Denver 37-0 Sunday for their eighth straight victory and a 4½ game lead over Dallas, the runner-up in the division.

DUKE FYFFE

Fyffe Tagged Week's Best Tiger Player

Dessel (Duke) Fyffe, one of the best sophomores to don the Red and Black togs of Circleville High School's grid warriors in many a campaign, was selected Player of the Week today by the CHS coaching staff.

Fyffe won his laurels for a three-touchdown performance against Miami Trace Friday during a 28-12 Tiger triumph. After viewing films of the tilt the coaches awarded Fyffe a 2.48 composite grade for his offensive running and blocking.

Scoring a scant point behind Fyffe in the balloting was Captain Pat Rooney with a 2.47. Rooney excelled in defensive play and performed capably as a first-time offensive guard.

The poll was one of the closest of the season. Trailing the leaders were Tom Bivens with 2.42, Garold Dade, 2.38, Tom Copland, 2.36, Bruce Horn, 2.35, Dave Hannahs, 2.34, and Ray Taylor, 2.31. The team as a whole averaged 2.35 on a maximum four point basis.

FOR THE reminder of this week the Tigers, with a 7-1 overall record and a 4-1 South Central Ohio League slate, will be in "overtime session" for this Friday night's make-or-break match at Franklin Heights. In order to stay in contention for the circuit championship Circleville has to defeat the Falcons.

Head mentor Carl Benhase and his staff have few illusions about an easy win over Heights. "We will be going into our toughest test of the season," Benhase stated. He noted there may be some changes to beef up the Tiger line, but other than that the CHS outfit will be working hard on some of the basic things — to know how to do them better.

One factor that may go a long way in determining the Tigers' success against the Columbus foe will be the effectiveness of a planned heavy passing attack. Quarterback Dave Hannahs will be the player to watch in this case.

Bantam Title Picture Seen Clearing Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The world bantamweight title mess may be cleared up within six weeks if things proceed according to plan. Ireland's John Caldwell defends his European version of the crown Tuesday in London against ex-champ Alphonse Halimi of France. The winner is supposed to box Brazil's Eder Jofre, the National Boxing Association champ, for the undisputed title on Dec. 5.

Caldwell beat Halimi May 30 in London for European recognition. Halimi once held the crown but was knocked out twice by Mexico's Joe Beceerra, who announced his retirement last year.

Alejandro Lavorante, the Argentine heavyweight who has moved up to No. 4 among Floyd Patterson's challengers, gets on TV Saturday (ABC) in a match with Billy Hunter of Detroit at Los Angeles.

In his last two starts, the Argentine whipped Alonzo Johnson and knocked out Mat Jackson. Hunter hasn't started since April when he was knocked out in the eighth round by Brian London in Manchester, England.

Floyd Patterson is winding up his New York area training this week and soon will move on to the Toronto area to complete work for his heavyweight title defense Nov. 4 against Tom McNeely of Boston.

Logan Elm Drops Scioto 48-6 In Last Game of Grid Season

Logan Elm's Braves capped a successful 1961 grid season Saturday night before an enthusiastic crowd at the county Fairgrounds field with a 48-6 victory over Scioto's Buffaloes.

The win gave the Logan Elm club a 6-2 record for the year while Scioto ended with a 2-4 ledger in regular play. The Braves started early as Dick Dean romped 34 yards over left guard for a first period touchdown, and were never headed.

Running demon Roger Clarke went over for the extra points to give the Braves an 8-0 first quarter advantage. In the second period Dean and Clarke teamed again, with Dean scoring on a two-yard plunge and Clarke taking an end-zone ride for 22 yards on the last play of the first half. Jim Martindale added a set of extra points after Dean's TD.

Terry Anderson was Logan Elm's big gun in the third stanza, hitting for scoring trips of nine and 15 yards around right end. Jeff Lutz tossed to Dick Shaw for another set of points after Anderson's first tally.

Lutz, who subbed for ailing Arnie Gabriel at quarterback, notched the Braves next counter early in the final canto on a one-yard sneak. Freshman Lewis Jordan intercepted a pass in the game's waning minutes and traveled 35 yards to mark the winners final touchdown.

Scioto got its only score in the last quarter as fullback Sam Abrams plunged across the goal line from the three for a TD.

The Braves throttled Scioto's aerial attack, intercepting five tosses. Head coach Keith Merrin noted Lutz "looks very promising" as a quarterback for next season.

The tilt was the last of their high school football careers for six Logan Elm and an equal number of Scioto seniors.

Cincinnati Slugger Off on Honeymoon

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Slugging star Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Reds was honeymooning today with Barbara Ann Cole, 20, a Los Angeles City College coed he met when the Reds played here last summer.

A Cincinnati club spokesman said the 26-year-old outfielder mentioned after the season he was going to get married, "but we thought he was kidding."

The Rev. H. B. Charles of Mount Sinai Baptist Church officiated at the private ceremony Saturday.

The bride said they will live in Cincinnati during the baseball season and in Los Angeles the rest of the year.

The Yankees scored a total of 14 runs in the first four World Series games against the Reds. In the final game they scored 13 runs.

Former jockey Ted Atkinson is the only rider to win the Vosburgh Handicap three times. He won in 1944, 1946 and 1953.

Columbus Pros Cut Shamrocks' Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Grand Rapids Shamrocks dropped their first game of the season in the United Football League, but still managed to stay in first place today by a half-point margin.

Each victory counts as one point and each tie as a half-point. So when the Shamrocks lost 41-21 to the Columbus Colts Saturday night, the Michigan team had a 5-1-1 won-lost-tied record for 5½ points, while the second-place Colts stood 4-1-2 for 5 points.

Cleveland, which was tied for third place with Louisville, took up disputed hold of that position by whipping the winless Akron Pros 17-15, while Louisville dropped a 20-13 decision to Indianapolis in other Saturday night action.

Michigan State, OSU,
Ole Miss Due To Face
Tough Foes Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Call it the moment of truth, or whatever, but Michigan State, the nation's No. 1 college football team, and bridesmaid Mississippi are each going to meet a team that will put them to the acid test this Saturday.

And so will Ohio State, Colorado and Notre Dame, three others in the select circle that shook from the chain reaction of upsets last Saturday.

Mississippi, whose unbeaten string has reached 21, meets its sternest competition of the year when Louisiana State plays host at Baton Rouge. The last game Ole Miss lost was to the Bayou Bengals, 7-3, in 1959.

Now the Rebels are 6-0 this season, 3-0 in the Southeastern Conference and coveting a national championship. LSU has lost only to Rice and is also 3-0 in the SEC. Both warmed up to this week's task over the weekend. Ole Miss clobbered Vanderbilt 47-0 and LSU killed Florida's SEC chances 23-0.

Michigan State, which hasn't allowed a point in Big Ten competition while ringing up a 3-0 mark, takes on powerful Minnesota, last year's national champ and co-Big Ten leader. The Gophers, who beat Michigan 23-20 for the little Brown Jug last Saturday, have won four in a row after a 6-0 loss to Missouri. The Spartans, 35-0 victors over Indiana, are 5-0 over-all, and have beaten Michigan and Notre Dame in other severe tests.

This Big Ten game, matching teams with identical 3-0 marks, plus Ohio State's encounter with Iowa, will clear some of the haze atop the standings. Ohio State is also 3-0 after beating Wisconsin 30-21 while Iowa now is 2-1, after being upset 9-0 by Purdue.

Alabama, which leads the SEC with a 4-0 mark, and is 6-0 overall, is expected to hang on to its lead against Mississippi State. The Crimson Tide had some difficulty beating Houston 17-0.

Colorado can pretty well nail down the Big Eight title if it beats Missouri. The Buffaloes are 4-0 in the conference after beating winless Oklahoma 22-14 while Missouri, defending champ, is 3-0 after its 10-0 dumping of Nebraska.

Notre Dame, one of many which fell before the upset syzygy, may be in trouble again this week against Navy, another upset victim. The Irish lost their second after three straight victories, 12-10 to Northwestern, while the Middles, who had won four in a row after one loss, were surprised by Pitt 28-14.

Texas (6-0) is expected to get its fourth win in the Southwest Conference against Southern Methodist after easily disposing of title contender Rice 34-7. Georgia Tech continues to pursue the leaders in the SEC, beating Tulane 35-6, and now meets rebounding Florida.

Elsewhere, Princeton is all alone in the Ivy League following its 30-25 victory over Cornell and Dartmouth's upset by Harvard. The Tigers take on winless Brown this week. The Citadel can wrap up the Southern Conference crown against defending champion Virginia Military. VMI is 3-1 after beating William & Mary 14-7 while The Citadel, 4-1, edged non-conference foe Xavier of Ohio 7-6.

Atlantic Coast leader Duke (4-1) moved a half game ahead of North Carolina (3-1) with a 17-6 victory over N.C. State. Utah State can tie Wyoming (4-0-1) for the Skyline Conference lead with a victory over Brigham Young after the Cowboys ended Utah's first-place hopes with a 13-6 win. UCLA, beating Stanford 20-0 for its first Big Five win, takes on California (0-1) this week and co-leader Southern California meets its second conference foe, Washington (1-1).

Rutgers, the nation's Lafayette unbeaten (5-0) team plays Lafayette after beating Penn 20-6 while Pitt

Khrush's Victory May Be Costly

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
BERLIN (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev apparently has won his war with the internal Soviet opposition to his leadership but the cost probably will be heavy.

Announcement that the mummified remains of Stalin will be removed from the gloomy tomb in Red Square can be viewed as a signal victory for Khrushchev after more than six years of struggle.

It probably means that while Khrushchev retains his position as leader, he has little prospect of being dictator. The dictatorship must be in the hands of a group. Khrushchev becomes the boss of an old-fashioned political machine which itself in some ways will be beholden to rank and file party opinion and even to Soviet public opinion as a whole.

The current Soviet congress shows the attacks on Khrushchev up to now were based on fear that his policies would lessen the authority of the party both at home and abroad.

This much is admitted in the reading publicly of a letter attributed to disgraced V. M. Molotov. Molotov complained that Khrushchev's policies were deviationist and anti-Communist.

Molotov, Georgi Malenkov and others who opposed Khrushchev—and came within a whisker of overthrowing him in 1957—objected to his policy of relaxation in international relations and even more to his economic projects at home, including his frequently failing virgin lands program for agriculture.

The relaxations, they could argue, brought unrest in Poland, revolt in Hungary, setbacks for communism. The policy even lost real estate. Khrushchev gave up the Soviet hold in Austria, the first time communism ever voluntarily surrendered an important territory it had occupied.

Khrushchev's economic policies abroad included aid to countries with anti-Communist regimes, to the anger of the Chinese Communists. Such policies, along with Khrushchev's deviations from pure Leninism, contributed to the costly public display of Peiping-Moscow irritation.

The economic policies at home called for decentralization in Khrushchev's eagerness to get his 20-year program on the road. Decentralization of authority in industry and agriculture could remove bureaucratic roadblocks hindering swifter Soviet development. But it also represented a danger. It meant diffusing authority, the right of lower levels to make decisions without prior reference to the Moscow center.

In brief, the policies could imperil the Kremlin's iron grip on the whole country. They could foster such problems as regional rivalries—even national rivalries—within the Soviet Union itself.

In the U.S.S.R., the people for the first time learned details of Stalin's blood purges, known for so long to people abroad. Khrushchev's 1956 denunciation of Stalin must be remembered, was not public property in the U.S.S.R. and the Communist bloc.

Now the men who for so many years collaborated with Khrushchev, both under Stalin and after Stalin, are paraded publicly as murderers and monsters.

Khrushchev had to be somewhat desperate to risk such a shock to the public of Communist countries. He must have needed so badly to win out that apparently he felt the risk was worth the result.

President Proclaims Thanksgiving

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy called upon all citizens Saturday to observe Thanksgiving Day Nov. 23 in a manner "not only to preserve our blessings, but also to extend them to the four corners of the earth."

"Let us by our example, as well as by our material aid, assist all peoples of all nations who are striving to achieve a better life in freedom," Kennedy said in his formal proclamation.

He urged all citizens to make this Thanksgiving not merely a holiday from their labors, but rather a day of contemplation, to be observed "with reverence and with prayer."

Just as the country's early pioneers faced perils, Kennedy said, awesome perils again remain to be faced, but he added: "Yet we have, as in the past, ample reason to be thankful for the abundance of our blessings. We are grateful for the blessings of faith and health and strength and for the imperishable spiritual gifts of love and hope. We give thanks, too, for our freedom as a nation; for the strength of our arms and for the faith of our friends; for the beliefs and confidence we share; for our determination to stand firmly for what we believe to be right, and to resist mightily what we believe to be base; and for the heritage of liberty bequeathed by our ancestors which we are privileged to preserve for our children and our children's children."

Business Briefs

Miss Ona M. Hurtt, assistant cashier of The First National Bank, Circleville, and Mrs. Arta James, cashier of The Farmers National Bank, Williamsport, attended the fall meeting of The Ohio Group of the National Association of Bank Women Saturday and Sunday at the Nationwide Inn, Columbus.

The afternoon program was a Panel Discussion on "Public Relations." The Evening Reception was given by the Ohio Bankers Association, followed by a banquet.

Guest speaker was H. B. Walker, cashier of the Farmers National Bank of Plain City. His topic was "Loosing our Independence." The Sunday Session included a luncheon, followed by a business meeting and reports of the National Convention at Rochester.

Homer R. Spangler, 218 S. Scioto St., retired recently as manager of the Spur Distributing Co., 309 W. Main St.

Spangler retired after 20 years of service with the company. The new manager of the Spur Service Station is Willard "Ray" Riggins.

Riggins, formerly of Columbus, has been with the company for six years.

He and his wife are presently residing at 326½ Mingo St.

NEW YORK (AP)—"It doesn't matter that I am a coward and a drunkard," explained the priest to his captor, "I can put God in a man's mouth just the same. It wouldn't matter if every man in the church was as bad as me."

Thus, after almost two hours of dramatizing a theme, did author Graham Greene state the premise on which "The Power and the Glory" was built. The adaptation of the religious novel was presented as a special Sunday night program on CBS.

It was a powerful, slow-moving tragedy with Lawrence Olivier proving once again his superb talents as he played an alcoholic—a "whisky priest" who had fathered a child.

The plot was set in a Latin American state with an anticlerical regime in power. The weak yet devout priest—the only surviving father—was being hunted down.

Because he believed he was the only man left in his state who could hear confession and perform church rites, the priest refused to leave and even permitted five persons to be shot as hostages because he was still free.

It was a brutal, adult and certainly controversial drama. It was a fine, thought-provoking show. Olivier was powerful and convincing. So were all the other performers in the large cast, particularly George C. Scott, playing the police lieutenant hunting down the priest. Scott was able to bring humanity—even sympathy—to the ruthless and efficient character.

Earlier, NBC showed the first of a new series, this one called "The World of Bob Hope."

By means of the now familiar documentary method—old film clips, home movies, family album photographs and some specially filmed material—the hour show covered Hope's life, particularly the past 40 years in show business, in peace and especially in war.

It was a leisurely and interesting treatment, with an unobtrusive but witty musical score, based mostly on Hope's familiar theme song, "Thanks for the Memory."

The narration, by the mellow-voiced Alexander Scourby, was not particularly incisive—pretty flowery, in fact—but samplings of Hope's jokes and wisecracks kept things from getting too saccharine.

Maxine Niles Joins Murphy Veterans Club

The local G. C. Murphy Company store has added another employee to its 25-year veteran's club.

Miss Maxine Niles, 201 W. Mill St., recently completed 25 years of service with the local Murphy department store.

As a company reward for her quarter of century service, Miss Niles received two shares of stock in the company, 25 red roses, a bonus check and a box of candy. The presentations were made by C. O. Schweizer, manager of the local store.

Two other women have 25 years of service at the store. They are: Miss Mary Allen and Mrs. Lena May Schweizer is also a 25-year employee.

Miss Niles, an assistant manager of the store, will receive a five-week vacation annually.

Savings Bond Sales Increase

Pickaway County sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds during September showed a huge increase over the same period one year ago.

Judge William D. Radcliff, county chairman, said sales during September totaled $87,574 as compared to $31,696 for September, 1960.

Sale of these bonds on a state level during the past month showed a decrease of $1.8 million over last year's figures for September.

Chairman Radcliff said the sales decrease reflects the work stoppages in some of Ohio's largest factories. Approximately 60 per cent of all Savings Bonds sales are derived from the popular payroll savings plan which is available in 85 per cent of all Ohio business concerns. A work stoppage of just one week has considerable impact on bond sales, Radcliff said.

Leading the state in percentage of quota attained are Belmont, Fairfield and Franklin counties.

Business Grows Uncertain As Public Clings to Cash

NEW YORK (AP)—A mood of uncertainty tinted with pale optimism persists in business circles as more economists doff their rose-colored glasses.

Troubling them most was the baffling attitude of a generally prosperous public that tended to cling to spare dollars rather than spend them and thus rev up the machinery of economic recovery.

At a meeting of economists in Chicago, one attributed this to a fallout shelter psychology, the result of prolonged international tensions accented ominously by Soviet brandishing of nuclear weapons.

The attitude, or something like it, continued to reflect in the stock market. Financial analysts said investors had plenty of cash but were chary about committing it.

One of the strongest expressions of optimism came from Washington where Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges stuck to earlier predictions of a fairly steep fourth quarter rise in the gross national product.

This measure of output of all goods and services will strike an October-December level of $540 billion, he said, compared with a $526 billion rate in the three months ended Sept. 30.

At the same time, Hodges acknowledged a recent slowing in recovery's pace.

The vital automobile industry, often an economic pacesetter, presented a mixed picture—encouraging in sales and new assemblies but clouded by drawn out labor negotiations that resulted in two costly work stoppages and held the threat of a third—this time at Chrysler Corp.

On the retail auto sales front, significant gains were reported for the middle third of October by General Motors' Pontiac, Buick and Oldsmobile divisions and by American Motors Corp.

Turnover of AMC Ramblers hit an all-time peak of 14,239. The news compounded the effect of bright industry sales reports for Oct. 1-10.

GM reported a slight dip in the third-quarter profits compared to the like 1960 period. Studebaker-Packard said it sharply cut its 1960 third-quarter loss. Chrysler Corp. reported a third quarter deficit of $4.8 million.

Last year Chrysler earned $1.4 million in the third quarter but it was the company's first profit for the period since 1957.

Although steel production fell slightly in each of the three preceding weeks there was talk of better things to come.

The Iron Age a trade magazine said output still might hit 80 per cent of capacity before the year's end rising from the present 70 per cent level.

And a major steelmaker projected 1962 production at 110 to 115 million tons possibly 15 or 20 million better than the record being written for this year.

Also on the plus side were reports of a brisk September upturn in shipments of home laundry appliances and orders of machine tool builders for metal cutting tools sometimes a harbinger of stepped-up capital spending by industry.

An electrical goods manufacturing official foresaw a three to five per cent rise in household appliance sales for next year and demand increased slightly for green fir lumber firming prices at northwestern mills.

The Labor Department said its cost-of-living index last month hit a record high of 128.3 per cent of the 1947-49 base period and probably would edge higher in October.

But the climb was only two-tenths of one per cent and was not seen as a sign of any major upturn in the months ahead.

On the darker side an economic sore spot came under scrutiny of 10 Eastern and Midwestern state governors Wednesday as presidents of major Eastern railroads spelled out their financial woes before the panel in New York.

The governors were told that 33 lines ran up a combined deficit of $122 million in the first two-thirds of the year and that nationalization of the industry threatens unless its "critical" problems are ironed out.

Restrictive federal regulatory policies federal subsidization of competing highway waterway and air transport and discriminatory state and federal tax practices drew the lion's share of the blame.

Also in the negative was a downturn in construction contracting in September. Residential building awards ran eight per cent ahead of a year earlier but softness in nonresidential and heavy construction dragged overall volume down four per cent.

Signs of concern about the 1961-62 federal deficit now estimated close to $7 billion came in an order by President Kennedy directing agency heads to clamp down on spending wherever possible.

Stocks shares traded during the week totaled 16,990,958 compared with 16,801,760 the previous week and 15,862,940 for the comparable week of last year. Bond sales totaled $28,898,000, compared with $28,550,400 the previous week and $29,981,000 for the comparable 1960 week.

Khrush's Victory May Be Costly

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
BERLIN (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev apparently has won his war with the internal Soviet opposition to his leadership but the cost probably will be heavy.

Announcement that the mummified remains of Stalin will be removed from the gloomy tomb in Red Square can be viewed as a signal victory for Khrushchev after more than six years of struggle.

It probably means that while Khrushchev retains his position as leader, he has little prospect of being dictator. The dictatorship must be in the hands of a group. Khrushchev becomes the boss of an old-fashioned political machine which itself in some ways will be beholden to rank and file party opinion and even to Soviet public opinion as a whole.

The current Soviet congress shows the attacks on Khrushchev up to now were based on fear that his policies would lessen the authority of the party both at home and abroad.

This much is admitted in the reading publicly of a letter attributed to disgraced V. M. Molotov. Molotov complained that Khrushchev's policies were deviationist and anti-Communist.

Molotov, Georgi Malenkov and others who opposed Khrushchev—and came within a whisker of overthrowing him in 1957—objected to his policy of relaxation in international relations and even more to his economic projects at home, including his frequently failing virgin lands program for agriculture.

The relaxations, they could argue, brought unrest in Poland, revolt in Hungary, setbacks for communism. The policy even lost real estate. Khrushchev gave up the Soviet hold in Austria, the first time communism ever voluntarily surrendered any important territory it had occupied.

Khrushchev's economic policies abroad included aid to countries with anti-Communist regimes, to the anger of the Chinese Communists. Such policies, along with Khrushchev's deviations from simon-pure Leninism, contributed to the costly public display of Peiping-Moscow irritation.

The economic policies at home called for decentralization in Khrushchev's eagerness to get his 70-year program on the road. Decentralization of authority in industry and agriculture could remove bureaucratic roadblocks hindering swifter Soviet development. But it also represented a danger, the right of lower levels to make decisions without prior reference to the Moscow center.

In brief, the policies could imperil the Kremlin's iron grip on the whole country. They could foster such problems as regional rivalries—even national rivalries—within the Soviet Union itself.

In the U.S.S.R., the people for the first time learned details of Stalin's blood purges, known for so long to people abroad. Khrushchev's 1956 denunciation of Stalin must be remembered, was not public property in the U.S.S.R. and the Communist bloc.

Now the men who for so many years collaborated with Khrushchev, both under Stalin and after Stalin, are paraded publicly as murderers and monsters.

Khrushchev had to be somewhat desperate to risk such a shock to the public of Communist countries. He must have needed so badly to win out that apparently he felt the risk was worth the result.

Since the last hearing earlier this month the N&W agreed to try eventually to tie the financially ailing Erie-Lackawanna into its expansion scheme.

In return the Erie-Lackawanna itself formed only last year by merger of the Erie and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroads—said it would withdraw its protest to the planned N&W-Wabash-Nickel Plate merger.

The Erie-Lackawanna, the New York Central and the Akron Canton & Youngstown railroads had protested the merger plan now before the ICC unless they were made part of it.

The consolidation the N&W proposes with the Wabash and Nickel Plate includes purchase for $27 million of the Pennsylvania Railroad's 111-mile line between Columbus and Sandusky, Ohio. This would link the N&W to the other two lines.

President Proclaims Thanksgiving

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy called upon all citizens Saturday to observe Thanksgiving Day Nov. 23 in a manner "not only to preserve our blessings, but also to extend them to the four corners of the earth."

"Let us by our example, as well as by our material aid, assist all peoples of all nations who are striving to achieve a better life in freedom," Kennedy said in his formal proclamation.

He urged all citizens to make this Thanksgiving not merely a holiday from their labors, but rather a day of contemplation, to be observed "with reverence and with prayer."

Just as the country's early pioneers faced perils, Kennedy said, awesome perils again remain to be faced, but he added: "Yet we have, as in the past, ample reason to be thankful for the abundance of our blessings. We are grateful for the blessings of faith and health and strength and for the imperishable spiritual gifts of love and hope. We give thanks, too, for our freedom as a nation; for the strength of our arms and the faith of our friends; for the beliefs and confidence we share; for our determination to stand firmly for what we believe to be right, and to resist mightily what we believe to be base; and for the heritage of liberty bequeathed by our ancestors which we are privileged to preserve for our children and our children's children."

Views on TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—"It doesn't matter that I am a coward and a drunkard," explained the priest to his captor, "I can put God in a man's mouth just the same. It wouldn't matter if every man in the church was as bad as me."

Thus, after almost two hours of dramatizing a theme, did author Graham Greene state the premise on which "The Power and the Glory" was built. The adaptation of the religious novel was presented as a special Sunday night program on CBS.

It was a powerful, slow-moving tragedy with Lawrence Olivier proving once again his superb talents as he played an alcoholic—a "whisky priest" who had fathered a child.

The plot was set in a Latin American state with an anticlerical regime in power. The weak yet devout priest—the only surviving father—was being hunted down.

Because he believed he was the only man left in his state who could hear confession and perform church rites, the priest refused to leave and even permitted five persons to be shot as hostages because he was still free.

It was a brutal, adult and certainly controversial drama. It was a fine, thought-provoking show. Olivier was powerful and convincing. So were all the other performers in the large cast, particularly George C. Scott, playing the police lieutenant hunting down the priest. Scott was able to bring humanity—even sympathy—to the ruthless and efficient character.

Earlier, NBC showed the first of a new series, this one called "The World of Bob Hope."

By means of the now familiar documentary method—old film clips, home movies, family album photographs and some specially filmed material—the hour show covered Hope's life, particularly the past 40 years in show business, in peace and especially in war.

It was a leisurely and interesting treatment, with an unobtrusive but witty musical score, based mostly on Hope's familiar theme song, "Thanks for the Memory."

The narration, by the mellow-voiced Alexander Scourby, was not particularly incisive—pretty flowery, in fact—but samplings of Hope's jokes and wisecracks kept things from getting too saccharine.
